5. Inventory counting software

Apprise Consulting noticing that a large number of companies were still counting stock by hand and recording the data manually teamed up with Trakware Solutions, a mobile applications company to produce a software program called SCM (Stock count management).

SCM allows you to automate your stock count and instantly download and compare stock with that of your existing stock file. It replaces pens, paper, clipboards and spreadsheets with hand held units or even mobile phones and a powerful PC application.

It's a joint development between a logistics consultancy and a software house.

SCM allows you to:

1. Reduce the overall time taken to undertake stock counts and cycle counts
2. Eliminate re-keying errors thus increasing accuracy
3. Upload stock count results via usb/bluetooth/wireless connection in seconds
4. Instantly calculate stock discrepancies
5. Send recounts back to individual count teams for verification.
6. Upload revised stock figures back into the company's legacy system.
7. Recoup your investment quickly

No longer do you need to spend hours on stock taking - locations, codes and quantities are automatically recorded and downloaded to a PC program which calculates variances between actual and system figures. This software has been developed using Active Studio.

Other products designed by the same team include asset management software, survey design software, security systems and many others where mobile solutions are required.
